Company.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks."

This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light.

Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawalian Electric Company and tell them what you want.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO

Having met with the highest cess in the manufacture and sale of Syrup of Figs, it has become important to all to have knowledge of the Company and its products. The great value of the remedy as a medicinal agent, and of the Company's efforts, is attested by the sale of the high approval of most eminent and repairing.

The California Fig Syrup Co. was organized more than twelve years ago, for the special purpose of manufacturing and selling a laxative remedy, which would be more pleasant to the taste and more beneficial in its effects than any other known. In the process of manufacturing, figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, and healthful in their tendencies, but the medicinal properties of the remedy are obtained from an excellent combination of plants known to be medicinally laxative, and to act most beneficially.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxative or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual Anderson, sailed from Eureka on the disease one may be commended to 4th for this port. Gue or mr. Moody's Anecdotes.

"A woman once came to me and told Journal. "Again and again she had tried to offer up pentions to God, but it seemed as though there was no comfort in her prayers. Every time she started to pray there came before her mind five bottles of wine which she had stolen. She then ex-plained to me how a number of years before she had been employed by a gentle man as housekeeper and had on several oc-cusions stolen bottles of wine from his cel-lar. I told her that she must confess he-sin and make restitution. But the old employer was dead, and she did not know what to do. Then I advised her to find some one who represented his estate and give to the representative an equivalent for what she had stolen. A few days later I again met her and learned that at last she had found peace and rest. She had made inquiry and found that her employer's son had succeeded to the old home, and to him she n. ie contession. She insisted that he accept a sum of money equivalent to what she had taken from his father, which he at first refused. But she persisted that he should and thus relieve her conseignee of the burden that she had so long carried. She was a new woman after tha time and learned the joy of having 'n conscience void of offense toward God and to ward men' "

CAT KEEPS HOUSE.

Year of Tante Sophie's Nick. Living on the outskirts of this city dust before the Mauna Loa sailed away out on Villere street in the neighbor-this morning a Japanese, who was hood of St. Roch's chapel, there is a queer helping the mate hoist a boat on deck, old character, Tante Sophie by name lost his footing and fell into the hold.

Tante Sophie is a little bit of a brown Frenchwoman, whom her neighbors know scarcely at all, and who rumor says is pos-sessed of considerable more wealth than > to believe. Tante Sophie's only companion in the little one roomed, one storied cottage among the caina trees is a black cat, Nick, that is a terror, not only to other felines, but to all the children and many of the grown folks of the neighborhood. It transpires that once a year Tanto Sophie leaves home, remaining away for three days at a time, reappearing as sud-denly as she departs. Just where and why she goes none of her neighbors have yet discovered. The most superstitious aver that she walks the whole length of the Ridge road and back with dried peas in her shoes to do penance for her sins, while the most sensible perhaps believe that she goes by boat to St. Martinsville or elsewhere to collect her rents. But be that as it may, during the old woman's absence she leaves her house and possessions with no other protector than the cat Nick.

The intelligent feline seems perfectly adequate to the responsibility of solitary housekeeping, and to the ordinary observer Tante Sophie's cottage during her absence presents the same appearance of being oc cupied as when she is herself at home. Be fore she leaves she lights the gas end sets the door partially ajar, leaving space enough for Nick's exit and entrance. Of course the burning gas is not observed through the blinds in the daytime, and Nick goes in and out and about the place quite as he does when his mistress is at At night he has only to push a light block against the door to close it when the little cottage is as cozy and hab itable as may be with its glowing ligh shining through the chinks.

This idea of a cat's keeping house is no doubt a novel one, but Tante Sophie plan is none the less a wise one. Nick reputation for witchcraft makes him an adequate guardian of the effects in the superstitious eyes of her neighbors, and the house's general appearance of being inhabited probably keeps it from being en tered by strangers, At all events nobody was ever known to take advantage of Tante Sophie's absence, and Nick's housekeeping seems to be altogether successful.-New Orleans Letter in Philadelphia Times.
